Republican National Convention in Tampa. NEW YORK (CNNMoney) -- Mexico's relationship with the United States is among the strongest it's ever been, the country's vice president said Thursday, after Mitt Romney formally accepted his party's nomination for president.
Romney has promised to strengthen U.S.-Mexico relations as he seeks to push through a sweeping trade deal with China that has pitted America against its top trading partner. The Republican presidential candidate said Thursday that he has a "good relationship" with Mexican President Enrique Peña Nieto. "I am glad to say that the relationship between Mexico and the United States is very, very good, and you can see that," Nieto said during a news conference with U.S. Vice President Joe Biden in Mexico City. Mexican Foreign Minister Jorge Castaneda said there is a great deal of desire in both governments to develop trade and other economic ties. "The willingness to establish a free trade zone, the willingness of both sides to give itself to make this a reality, that is something that is very strong," Castaneda said. Most recently, Romney 0cc13bf012
